the future of Elba. The Coffee County Board of Registrars called Wednesday and asked that our readers be reminded of the September 6th deadline to register and vote in the September 17th run-off election in Elba. It hadn't crossed our mind until folks at the Board of Registrars mentioned it, but Elba is the only city or town in Coffee County with a run-off, and here it is only the race for mayor.

Did all the August 27th area municipal elections go the way we wanted them to go? Nope ... but then they never do. There were some disappointments and some surprises, but the sun came up as usual Wednesday morning, in fact except for a bit of fog early on, it was another beautiful morning!

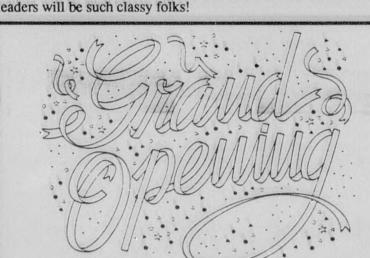

While elections are the topic, it should be noted that the August 27th Elba municipal elections attracted a record number of voters. Four years ago 1536 people voted in the runoff election for mayor, 187 more than in the first primary. Last week there were 1651 who voted in the mayor's race! This represents 60.096% of the registered voters within the city limits. We urge each and every one of these citizens to return to the polls on September 17th.

There was a bit of diplomatic maneuvering necessary before the U.S. could safely jump in on this incident. Another question has been asked a great deal concerns fertilizing your yard in the wintertime. As we move Four Coffee County into our potential first frost, the fall is not a good time to put out nitrogen fertilizer. The primary reason for this is that if you get new growth and it freezes on that growth, you can cause some serious problems for the grass in the future. If you feel like you need to add something to your soil, the best thing is to soil test first to see if you do in fact need enables county Agent

Time of planting critical to winter grazing grasses

To a diversified farmer, particularly one who has peanuts and cattle, there are two items of business on his mind right now. One is to get his peanut harvest up out of the field and sold at a good price. The other is to try to get winter grazing planted before too much cold weather moves in.

The belonest the peanut harvest. I have seen through my own observation and as many farmers know we have planted as late as the latter part of October and even the first part of November with quite a bit of success on ryegrass. My own personal opinion is that if you get much past the first week in November, you are running a risk of freeze damage on ryegrass.

To help ease the mind of many of these folks, I felt it would be a good lidea to talk a little about what referred to talk search has told us in planting forage grasses. To start, let's talk about wheat for just a second. Wheat can be planted all of the way to November 15 here in South Alabama. Usually, if you broadcast the seed, you need to get out 60 to 90 pounds to the acre. If you drill it, you cut this search has told us in planting forage kind of tolerance. If you plant late, you may want to use the variety Marshall since this appears to be one of the best cold hardy varieties that we have. If you broadcast, the rate on ryegrass is 20 to 30 pounds to the acre. If you mix ryegrass with other forage crops, you can lower that rate the acre. If you drill it, you cut this to 60 to 75 pounds to the acre. If you are going to graze just wheat by itself, you can plant as much as 120 pounds to the acre. In a mixture, you pounds to the acre. In a mixture, you most pounds to the acre. Wheat should be planted no more than an inch to two for us here in South Alabama is oats.

They are very putitious and cattle. able to go just a little later in planting rye than you can with wheat and can also start, most of the time, a little earlier. The only problem in getting in too early with rye is if weather conditions get just right, it can head out in the late fall of the year. The rates on rye are very much like wheat.

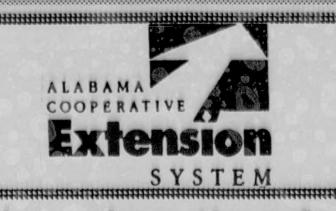

If you want late grazing, say on into May or June, then ryegrass is the forage grass that you would want to look at. Auburn research indicates the best time to plant ryegrass is the latter part of September. However, here in the Peanut Belt it has been hard for us to plant that early due to ble cold weather for any length of time, oats will winter kill. September through October is the best time to plant oats. If you are planting them for grain, you can go even 30 days later than this. I think oats are much like ryegrass. Planting much past the first part of November increases the risk of freeze damage. The rate for oats is much like wheat and rye. They also do very well at one to two inches deep.

There is nothing magic about these dates. Every year is different in the type of weather we get. They are only guides set up by the research conducted.

THE PRESSBOX

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

The Mularz girls have turned into cooks over the past few weeks and so far that has resulted in cookies being baked at least one night per week. The first batch was chocolate chip cookies, and while several were a little too dark, they did eat okay and were all gone by the next morning. Over the weekend a big batch of sugar cookies came out of the oven, and practice obviously made better, as the latest batch was excellent. ELBA TIGERS READY TO OPEN NEW FOOTBALL SEASON

The Elba Tigers will travel to Troy on Friday night for their season opener against Charles Henderson, and I've got a hunch that the '96 Tiers will be a team that will be easy to support and will continue the tradition of winning football games. This year's Tigers don't have any so-called "superstars" and none of the players have received much preseason attention, but this bunch has been playing since they were youngsters and play for the fun of the sport, not to receive any personal glory. I have called this group a "blue collar" team for the past two years and have enjoyed watching them go to work on Friday nights. Some nights the results are better than others; however, there is never any doubt that this group of players gives it all it has for all four quarters, and that is all anyone can ask. Former Elba coach Leon Akins used to wear boots and work pants to football practice and said he dressed that way because he "was going to work, and you wore your work clothes when you were at work." This team is like Coach Akins in many ways in that it works hard for everything it gets, and never expects anything to come easy. This year's Elba Tigers may not look too fancy at times and might struggle at other times, but they will always give it all they've got and leave nothing on the field when the final horn sounds. That's the way it should be, and just the way we like it down here in Tigertown!

THE ELBA CLIPPER SEPTEMBER 5, 1996 ready to hit the field and will remember what they have learned. The stories are all different at the various schools, but here is what I've heard from the camps at the schools in our coverage area... NEW BROCKTON surprised even its coaches in last week's con trolled scrimmage against Louisville and McKenzie, and with only one day left before the season opener, the Gamecocks and their fans are anxious to see just how good their team really is. There is no doubt the Gamecocks have the weapons on offense to put a lot of points on the scoreboard. So, the key to success this season may very well be how well the defense can slow folks down. I may be wrong, but I think the Gamecocks will be a surprise team this season and will win more than its share ZION CHAPEL has seen its numbers reach a dangerously low lev-el in recent weeks and unless something happens soon the Rebels could very well not have enough players to complete the season. Word is that the Rebels are down to 14 players, even when everyone is healthy, and if it is true that means that any rash of injuries could possibly wipe out some games. I don't know what has happened up at Zion Chapel since the spring, but it is hard to believe that the boys at ZC will simply stand by and watch the football program crumble. If the "Fighting Few" can stay

Ithy, don't be surprised if they notch some big wins. KINSTON is once again saying this is the "Year of the Bulldog," and unlike years past, this time the rumblings out of South Coffee County may be true. The Bulldogs have enough players to platoon almost two en tirely different squads, and with the players able to get a rest during the games, the 'Dogs should be fresh when the fourth quarter rolls around. Kinston has depth, talent, size and experience, and the result could be a record number of wins. The key? The key success for Kinston this season that games are won on Friday night, and not in the newspapers. BRANTLEY may finally be headed for a rebuilding year and the Bulldogs may have a real fight on their hands each and every Friday night. With only a handful of starters back on both sides of the ball, the success of the Bulldogs this season will rest with how soon the youngsters can learn the game, and how quickly the coaches are able to get the team to jell. Brantley's cupboard is far from bare and no one is about to feel sorry for the Bulldogs after years of winning. So, the folks up in Brantley had better just roll up their sleeves and get ready for some long hours of work, on and off the field.

NEW PLAYOFF SCHEDULE IS FAR FROM ATTRACTIVE

play," Lowery added. "They used The Alabama High School Athletic Association and the Birmingham Monday Morning Quarterback Club has announced the new "Super Six" championship schedule for high school football teams in all six classes, and while the schedule is being billed as something great by state officials, it appears anything but attractive for the teams from South Alabam, the property of the state of the large triplet of the state of the large triplet and the la an offense that was similar to ours backs, but you never really know what to expect in the first game of abama that will have to make the long trip to Birmingham to compete in the finals. Championship games will be played on Thursday and Friday. Dec. 12-13, at 3:30 and 7:00 p.m., and then conclude with games on Satthrow against us. Over on defense, they were real aggressive and used urday, Dec.14, with games at 12:00 (noon) and 3:30 p.m. a variety of formations. Charles How can playing a state championship game at 3:30 on a Thursday or Henderson has a lot of speed on the defensive side of the ball in the riday be attractive to anyone? AHSAA director Dan Washburn stated the afternoon schedule would allow local students to see the games after spring, and will try to utilize its school, and also allow for travel time for those from other areas. Maybe 'm just a little confused, but I can't understand how playing the games in "We'll have to be balanced on ningham on Thursday and Friday will help anyone except the folks offense and not make too many from Birmingham. The fans will have to take a day off from work to go mental mistakes," stated Coach to the game, and add to that the expense of going all the way to Birming Lowery, who is in his second year ham to watch the game. I always thought the fans of the sport were the at the Elba helm. "We know that keys to the game and that empty seats didn't pay the bills, but I guess everyone makes mistakes early in since the AHSAA is getting all that money from the Monday Morning Quarterbacks, the bills will get paid no matter how many fans can't make Won't the students, players, cheerleaders and band members have to miss at least one day of school? Won't the schools have to pay to transport the teams, band members and other involved students and teachers to the game? Hey, I'll back off and give the new format a chance to succeed; however, at the same time I just wish the AHSAA officials would stop means our young linemen will have to grow up and do their jobs. We bragging about how great everything is going to be. Time will tell how popular the format is with the schools and their fans!

TIDE & TIGERS OFF TO LACKLUSTER STARTS

I guess when you are favored by anywhere from 40-60 points it is almost impossible to live up to the pre-game hype and impress your critics. Such was the case last weekend as Alabama and Auburn both went through the motions in claiming less than impressive wins over Bowling Green and UAB. The Crimson Tide always plays down to its competition and its 21-7 win wasn't all that big a surprise, but Auburn was clearly out of UAB's class and should be embarrassed after its 29-0 win over the Blazers. Fans always expect too much in early-season games and are too critical after less than impressive performances, but there is no way anyone can be too critical after last week's showings by both teams. There are a lot of games left on the schedule and better days are ahead, or at least

POLISH PROGNOSTICATOR READY TO PICK PREPS

Ye Ole Polish Prognosticator came by the house over the weekend and declared that it wasn't fair to expect him to make any predictions until at least mid-season. I disagreed and told him it was the early games that separated the guess-perts from the experts, and finally convinced him to pick the week #1 contests. Here we go for another year....

ELBA VS. CHARLES HENDERSON The Elba Tigers defeated Charles Henderson for the first time in three years last season and Friday night will be out to make it two in-a-row against the newly energized Trojans. ZION CHAPEL VS. THORSBY
The Rebels have as many problems off the field as they do on the field, and may be the only team in the state that isn't looking forward to the beginning of the season. If Zion Chapel's players can stay healthy and keep focused they could bring home a win against lowly Thorsby. Call it a BRANTLEY VS. STRAUGHN The Bulldogs will be rebuilding this season and will have a fight on their hands every night out. Straughn may not be as good as in years past, but the Tigers are a solid 2A club and have more than enough talent to upset the 'Dogs. The home field could make the difference.

Wide-receivers Robert Fleming (160) and Jimmy Lunsford (147) will give Allums two long-ball threats when the Gamecocks put the ball in the air, and should give Brockton as much speed as any team in the area!

While the New Brockton line may not be as big as many of its opponents, the Gamecocks will have three physical linemen in Rob Brabham (181), Enorise Newson (210) and Daniel Witmer (158), and should have more than enough skill to open cracks for the speedy backs to burst through. When Tomorrow Starts Without Me

When tomorrow starts without me, and I'm not here to see. If the sun should rise and find your eyes all filled with tears for me I wish so much you wouldn't cry the way you did today, While thinking of the many things we didn't get to say. I know how much you love me, as much as I love you, And each time you think of me, I know you'll miss me too. But when tomorrow starts without me, please try to understand, That an angel came and called my name and took me by the hand And said my place was ready in heaven far above, And that I'd have to leave behind all those I dearly love.

But as I turned to walk away, a tear fell from my eye, For all my life, I'd always thought I didn't want to die; I had so much to live for and so much yet to do, It seemed almost impossible that I was leaving you. I thought of all the yesterdays, the good ones and the bad, I thought of all the love we shared and all the fun we had. If I could relive yesterday, I thought, just for a while, I'd say good-bye and kiss you and maybe see you smile.

But then I fully realized that this could never be, For emptiness and memories would take the place of me. And when I thought of worldly things that I'd miss come tomorrow, I thought of you, and when I did, my heart was filled with sorrow. But when I walked through heaven's gates, I felt so much at home. When God looked down and smiled at me, from his great golden throne, He said, "This is eternity and all I've promised you. Today your life on earth is past and here it starts anew.

I promise no tomorrows, but today will always last, And since each day's the same day, there's no longing for the past. But though I promise no tomorrows on earth to anyone, So many live each day so sure of seeing 'one more sun'. Yet each one knows that I will call and no one knows just when. But they will never stop to pray and ask forgiveness for their sin: For many have I turned away so sad at heaven's gate, For when I called they weren't ready, and it was much too late.

You knew you shouldn't do. But you have been forgiven and now at last you're free, So won't you take my hand and share my life with me?" So when tomorrow starts without me, don't think we're far apart, For every time you think of me, I'm right here in your heart.
